Manager Commentary

The Fund's return of 10.6% in the 1st Quarter of 2012 lagged the benchmark Russell 2000 return of 12.4%.

Underperformance relative to the Russell 2000 Index was driven primarily by more volatile, lower quality companies within the small cap universe. In addition, the Fund's average market cap is slightly higher than the benchmark, which detracted from performance as smaller market caps outperformed in the quarter.

Our weakest performing sectors were Energy, Materials and Financials. Our Energy holdings have significant exposure to natural gas, a commodity that continues to see a decline in price. In the Materials sector, the Fund's chemical companies did not keep pace with strong performance from companies in the Index. In Financials, weaker performance from the Fund's insurance holdings relative to the benchmark weighed on sector performance.

Three portfolio holdings were eliminated and four new companies were added this quarter.

Our objective is to deliver long-term, above-average returns with below average risk for our clients. We focus on long-term trends and take advantage of opportunities created by normal economic and market volatility. We believe in owning quality companies temporarily priced below their intrinsic value. Utilizing a fundamental, research-driven process, we analyze businesses and select investments based on individual merit, resulting in a portfolio of 60-70 holdings. Portfolios are diversified across economic sectors, hold low levels of cash and turnover is low, approximately 25-35% annually.

² The Price-to-Earnings Ratio is a forward looking ratio which divides the current price of the fund by its estimated future earning per share. The Price-to-Book Ratio is used to compare a stock's market value to its book value. Beta is a coefficient measuring a stock's relative volatility compared to the S&P 500 Index. For each fund with at least a three-year history, Morningstar calculates a Morningstar Rating™ based on a Morningstar Risk-Adjusted Return measure that accounts for variation in a fund's monthly performance (including the effects of sales charges, loads, and redemption fees), placing more emphasis on downward variations and rewarding consistent performance. The top 10% of the funds in each category receive 5 stars, the next 22.5% receive 4 stars, the next 35% receive 3 stars, the next 22.5% receive 2 stars and the bottom 10% receive 1 star. (Each share class is counted as a fraction of one fund within the scale and rated separately, which may cause slight variations in the distribution percentages). For the period ended March 31, 2012, the Fund received 4, 5 and 4 stars out of 585, 493 and 304 Small Blend funds for the three-, five- and ten-year periods, respectively.
